

LAUNDRY BOOSTERS MAP PROGRAM FOR BUSINESS EXPANSION

Subscribers Meet at Libertyville—Discuss Plans for Cleaning Plant

Plans for raising additional funds for the immediate erection of a dry cleaning plant in connection with the Chain O' Lakes laundry were discussed at a dinner and meeting of shareholders at the Wayside Inn, Libertyville, on Monday night.

With the difficulties and detail attending the incorporation settled with the granting of the charter recently by Secretary of State William J. Stratton, officials of the company declared that they are ready to launch a program for the expansion of the business in a big way.

The Chain O' Lakes Laundry has one of the best equipped plants to be found in northern Illinois, and the addition of a modern dry cleaning establishment, designed to serve the individual customer as well as catering to jobbing business, will greatly increase the revenue of the plant and also will enhance the physical value of the property. The plan is receiving the endorsement of shareholders.

Present and addressing the meeting Monday night was R. L. Cowie, Chicago, who stated that he had checked up on the local laundry and recommended it as a sound investment. Declaring that capable management and volume of business are requisites to success in the business, Mr. Cowie stated he had also made an examination of the business record of E. A. Grutzmacher, whom he lauded as a laundry executive of exceptional ability.

Addresses were also made by Geo. E. Orr, efficiency engineer, who has been on the laundry job here since its inception, and Robt. C. Abt, local realtor and one of the principal boosters in establishing the laundry plant for the chain of lakes region. Other meetings are to be held within the next few days, it was announced.

LAKE COUNTY Farm Bureau NEWS NOTES

Interest in Home Bureau is increasing as the homemakers of Lake county learn of the work. Many are interested to know that they may have a Home Bureau unit or group in their own community.

ANTIOCH LOSES TO LIBERTYVILLE, 6-0, AFTER HARD BATTLE

H. S. Amer. History Class
Arranges Fine Program for Armistice Day

Antioch has cause to feel proud of their squad in spite of the loss of the last game to Libertyville by the score of 6-0, as the boys played their best every minute of the game and put up a terrific scrap. The local team held the heavier team during the most of the game, but the boys were unable to prevent their opponents scoring the deciding touchdown in the first quarter. A large crowd turned out to this last game, all primed to use their lungs to the limit of lustiness. The game, in spite of a dearth of touchdowns, proved to be unusually exciting, particularly when the boys had just secured the necessary yardage or fumbled by one yard, as occurred several times. McNell was able to play the last game in spite of an infected arm, which prevented his playing most of the season. Brogan and Turk, fighting in the thickest part of the skirmish, were slightly hurt, but were not taken from the game. Hughes could not play, due to an arm broken in the game with Leyden.

The G. G. A. girls went on a five mile hike yesterday after school. They hiked towards Channel Lake and back.

RINGWOOD MAN IS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT ON RT. 59

Oscar Tabor of Ringwood, Ill., received a severe scalp wound and broken nose bridge early Monday afternoon when the car in which he was riding overturned on Route 59 near Lake Villa.

The other occupant of the car, Fred Bachmann, who formerly ran the refreshment stand at Loon Lake, was not seriously injured.

Tabor was brought to Dr. W. W. Warriner's office, where his wounds were dressed. He was then taken to his home in Ringwood.

Four-Page Comic Section Starts in This Issue of News

The four-page comic section, featuring the nationally famous "Slim Jim" and the Force, that is to be a regular feature of the News, starts in this issue. This and other comics that are sure to prove delightful, will appear regularly.

Seven business and professional firms have taken advantage of the excellent advertising opportunity offered in this section. They are: Koppers Coke, Chicago; Wertex, Hartman's, Waukegan Radio Service, McElroy Bros., Genesee Studio, and the Central Beauty Shop, all Waukegan firms.

A beautiful Red Cross supplement in rotogravure is also included this week.

ENTERTAIN BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Henry Rentner and Mrs. John E. Moore were hostesses to the Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club at the home of Mrs. Moore on Victoria street this afternoon. Three prizes were awarded.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS IS FATAL TO CHILD

Virginia Van Patten Passes
Away at Home Yesterday Afternoon

Virginia Mary Van Patten 9, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van Patten succumbed to the dread disease, infantile paralysis, shortly after noon yesterday at her home. Although everything possible had been done to save the child's life, and two nurses had been employed, all efforts were in vain.

Stricken with illness ten days ago, the malady was diagnosed as infantile paralysis Thursday. Recognizing the disease as one of the most fatal among children, the case was immediately isolated by Health Officer, Dr. H. F. Beebe, who ordered school closed in Room III and a thorough fumigation of the school building.

Virginia Mary was born in Antioch on August 3, 1921, and had been a pupil in the third grade this year.

She is survived by her mother, father, three sisters, Jean, Helen, Edna, and two brothers, Raymond and Kenneth, besides many other relatives.

Funeral services were held this morning at 10:30 at the home, where a prayer was given, further services being held at the cemetery. Rev. Simms and Rev. Pollock officiating. Interment was beside another sister, Clarice, in the Antioch Hillside cemetery.

Crowd Turns Out to Celebrate Prin. W. C. Petty's Victory

Supporters of W. C. Petty in his campaign for County Supt. of Schools further proved Mr. Petty's popularity and their strong backing by their presence at the party at the high school Monday evening to celebrate his victory.

Nearly three hundred attended and devoted themselves to dancing or card playing, until Mr. Bright introduced many of the active campaigners, who gave short talks. They were George B. Bartlett, president of the Antioch village board, Judge Persons, L. O. Brockway, recorder, William Rosling, supervisor, Supervisor Charles Wright of Warren, Norton Flood, H. E. McArthur, and Mr. Stevens of Waukegan; Mrs. Wagner of Volo, Mayor Gonyo of Winthrop Harbor, Mr. Bathos, superintendent of the Grayslake school, Mrs. Kapple of Grayslake, Mrs. W. W. Warriner of the Woman's club of Antioch, and Mrs. Bennett of Fox Lake.

Receives Flowers

The Fox Lake P. T. A. presented Mr. Petty with a beautiful basket of flowers. Mr. Petty then spoke briefly, thanking everyone and particularly the campaigners for their loyal support.

Music was furnished by the Benson Bros. Barnyard Fiddlers of Bristol, and radio fans were pleased to see and hear Earl St. John, "the man in the moon," a former announcer on WJJD, Mooseheart.

The party was in charge of the most active Antioch supporters, the program committee composing Messrs. Fred Hawkins, L. O. Bright, C. N. Lux, S. E. Pollock and Roy Murrie. The refreshments were taken care of by Mesdames Minnie Taylor, B. M. Burke, W. W. Warriner, C. N. Lux, L. B. Grice, J. E. Brook, P. E. Chinn, Fred Hawkins, Robert Wilton and Ruby Richey. S. H. Reeves donated the ice cream.

CHANNEL LAKE IS STOCKED WITH FISH

Twenty thousand bass, bluegills, pickerel and crappies were planted in the waters of Channel Lake recently through the efforts of Elmer Sorenson, Willis Shannon, Fred Pashe, Ray Sorenson and Arch Shannon, who get this consignment every year from the state fish hatchery at Spring Grove from Game Warden Hamburger and Supervisor Sinclair, who are sealing the chain of lakes of all undesirable fish, at the direction of the state department of conservation.

This program will continue from year to year as long as citizens of the community are interested in giving support to the proposition for which they pay taxes, whether utilized here or elsewhere.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Gaston and Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. King motored to DeKalb Sunday, taking Howard Gaston back to school.

Local Auxiliary Unit Announces Committees

Announcement of the following Legion Auxiliary committees to serve during the year were announced at the last meeting of the unit by President Mrs. Mary Chase:

FIRST REHEARSAL FIRMLY ESTABLISHES COMMUNITY CHORUS

The organization of a Community Chorus has been effected and is thought by the original committee, to be a very practicable plan. E. V. Jeffers, director of the new chorus, was much enthused over the response Monday evening, and expects even more to attend the next rehearsal at 7:30 p. m., Monday, Nov. 17.

The first number practiced was taken from the "Messiah," and showed the capabilities of such a chorus. It is expected that by combining this organization with the high school chorus next spring that a depth and volume of tone will be added to the younger voices.

"MILITARISM VS PACIFISM"

This week we again commemorated that memorable event which took place twelve years ago, the signing of the Armistice, which brought to a close the most terrible war which this world, in all its history, has ever known. We were sure twelve years ago that the great war that had just come to a close was the war that would end all wars. But now we are not so sure of this as we were then. There are some who tell us that another war, greater and more terrible than the last war is inevitable, and that not far in the future.

There seems to be much agitation toward peace, universal peace, and yet it seems impossible to think of peace without thinking also of war. As some one has said, "We are talking peace and thinking war." That, however, does not mean that we want another war. But it does mean that some are convinced that we should be prepared to defend ourselves in case another war should occur. The result has been that a divergence of opinions have been expressed as to the best kind of protection. Two extreme positions are held. One, commonly called "Militaristic," and the "Pacifistic." The militarist and the pacifist both think alike when it comes to not wanting another war. Neither wants another war. The militarist believes that the only way to be safe from another war is to build up so strong an Army and Navy that no Nation would dare undertake attacking us. The pacifist believes that the only way to be safe from another war is not to build up a strong Army and Navy, but a feeling of friendship and good-will, and justice in our dealings with other Nations so there could be no occasion for war. They even believe in disarming, cutting down our Army and Navy so other Nations will not be afraid of us. This is essentially the difference between the militarist and the pacifist.

It might be worth our while to ponder briefly the reasonableness, or unreasonableness of these conflicting theories of attaining security and survival. Does physical power and force really insure security? Is the best means of securing the thing most desired? If so, why have not the great Dinosaurs survived which once inhabited the earth and were the embodiment of physical strength.

Furthermore, we are learning that there are better methods for the development of the child than that of applying physical force. History reveals that the Nations which once were powerful and flourishing in the ancient days and which depended upon the sword for defense and conquest have gone down with the sword.

It has been said that they sowed strife, and they reaped strife, and in strife they perished. Was it not true also in the recent War that the Nation best prepared with the sword perished? Their adequate defense did not insure survival, nor did it give to that nation any sense of security. Earl Gray of England, said, "The increase of armaments which is intended to produce a consciousness of strength and a sense of security does not produce these effects. On the contrary, it produces a consciousness of the strength of other Nations and produces a sense of fear and insecurity,—it was these that made war inevitable." If this is true the theory of the militarist does not give what we desire, a sense of security, nor does it insure survival.

What of the theory of the pacifist? Does friendship, good-will and justice insure greater security than the protection or defense of the sword? Doubtless most of us who are on friendly terms with our neighbors and associates possess a greater sense security than do the gangsters of our great cities who are dependent upon being heavily armed for their security. The experiment of William Penn in his just and friendly relations with the Indians gave to the colonists of Pennsylvania a greater security and protection than in other colonies where justice and good-will did not prevail. The mutual friendly relation which exists between the United States and Canada without battleships on the Great Lakes, and with no forts on our shores as a protection against the Canadians, gives us a greater security than if we were not on friendly relations and had battleships on the Lakes and forts on the shores as a protection. Can it be truthfully said that the theory of the pacifist is only an idle dream? Can

HUNTER PAYS FINE FOR RESISTING ARREST

Many Violators Taken in County During Pheasant
Season

Subdued, although not seriously injured following a battle with Constable Sidney Dibble and Deputy Sheriff Al. B. Maier, L. Schaeinstine was brought before Justice Keller in Lake Villa late yesterday where he paid a fine of $20 for resisting arrest and hunting without a permit on the O. W. Lehmann farm game preserve.

Schaeinstine, who lives west of Lake Villa, was accompanied by two Chicago friends when the officers approached the trio Monday. Flourishing his gun, Schaeinstine resisted arrest, and when Dibble attempted to take the weapon he showed fight until Maier found it necessary to lay him low.

Fined for Shooting Partridge

Fines of $25 and cost each were assessed against Arthur Bauer, 1409 W. 71st street, Chicago, and Arthur Feager, 722 W. 47th Place, Chicago, yesterday in Justice Keller's court, Lake Villa, on charges of killing Hungarian partridge. Bauer and Feager were arrested Tuesday by Constable Dibble and Deputy Sheriff Maier on the Ames farm west of Lake Villa.

A score or more of violations have been arrested throughout the county since the opening of the pheasant and rabbit season Monday. Tomorrow is the last day for shooting pheasants and prairie chickens.

CHINDBLOM ELECTION STILL IS UNCERTAIN

Re-check Being Made to Decide Congressman Post
in Tenth District

Result of the election in the Tenth congressional district was still hanging in the balance today as a re-check of the vote that will mean either victory or defeat of Congressman Carl R. Chindblom was being made.

The Tenth district was listed as "doubtful" when it was found the count was to be too close for comfort on the part of the candidates. Some precincts failed to submit final returns and a canvassing board is re-checking the result in the fight between Congressman Chindblom and Democratic adversary, John E. Hesse. The canvass thus far reveals Chindblom to be in the lead by a slight margin.

FOUR ATTEND WAUCONDA O. E. S. MEETING

Mrs. Paul Ferris, Mrs. O. S. Klass, Miss Elizabeth Webb and Mrs. Robert Wilton attended the Eastern Star meeting at Wauconda Friday evening. Mrs. Ferris took the station of warder.

An unconfirmed report has been heard that Ned Bates has been married.

Vin Coolidge has said, "Peace and security are more likely to result from fair and honorable dealings and mutual agreement for the limitation of armaments than by any attempt in competition in squaredons and batlements." No, the theory of the pacifist is not an idle dream, where ever it has been given a trial.

USELESS FARM AUTOMOBILES

The automobile has made it possible for us to go from state to state in less time than it once took to go from town to town. It has, by giving us a fast, economical and efficient means of transporting commodities over short distances, been of tremendous benefit to business.

But the average city dweller overlooks the fact that these fine fruits of the automobile are restricted, largely, to comparatively urban areas. Five or ten or fifteen miles away from main highways, in farming localities, we find roads over which no motor car can travel during several months of each year. The residents of these sections are as completely cut off from personal and industrial contacts with the outside world as were their grandfathers. A few days or weeks of bad weather make their motor vehicle useless.

The amazing progress of the twentieth century was the result of the mechanization of all phases of industry. Agriculture has not sufficiently shared in this movement. Our farmers need good roads which are serviceable at all times of the year. Such roads can be built at low cost with the use of asphaltic materials for waterproofing the surface, and pay for themselves time and again in increased farm prosperity.

DOUBLING TAXES

The Bureau of the Census states, after a study of 250 American communities, that the cost of operating city governments in this country more than doubled during the ten years following 1917.

In 1917 per capita payment for operation and maintenance of general departments of these governments was $19.07; in 1927 it was $40.93 and in 1928, $42.63. While no official survey has been made for later years, it will undoubtedly be found that further increases occurred in 1928 and 1930.

Waste and inefficiency due to outmoded methods and duplication of effort on the part of city governments, make a sad hole in the American pocketbook.

The extension of government activity outside the function of governing and into the field of business, with tax-exemption privileges for publicly owned enterprises, is largely responsible for rising tax bills.

HELPING THE RETAILER

MEET CHAIN-STORE COMPETITION

Likening modern chain-store competition to that of the mail-order houses a generation ago, M. J. Norrell, Texas banker, writing in the November "Rotarian Magazine," declares that retailers can cope with their new rival even more easily than their old one by taking advantage of the new methods of merchandising.

In this movement, the wholesaler, himself feeling the pinch of the times, is leading the way by establishing such "services" for his retail outlet as "model stores" where local merchants and their clerks may attend "clinics" in store management and selling.

"The future of the wholesaler appears dismal," comments Mr. Norrell, "unless he looks upon merchandise as unsold until it reaches the ultimate consumer and unless he stops merely a warehouseman and changes himself into a retail consultant and guide."

A mid-western hardware wholesaler is one of the middlemen who has awakened to these possibilities, and has installed a complete retail hardware store in his building. Here his customers may learn about good lighting, effective display and efficient store arrangement. A dry-goods wholesaler has done the same, and others are following suit. Each is trying to help the retailer sell.

One of the most effective projects of this kind is the model grocery at Louisville, Ky. This is an actual store selling canned peaches and milk and sardines to customers. It is operated by co-operating wholesalers and without profit. Here experts teach window-display, customer psychology, stock-keeping, return-goods methods, credit practices, and the thousand and fifty things that spell success or bankruptcy for the local merchant.

"During 1929," says Mr. Norrell, "7,500 merchants launched new business ships on the troubled sea of retailing. Many of them set out without either the chart of experience or the compass of knowledge, their only instrument of navigation being the credit they have been able to secure. Is it any wonder that thousands of stores are taken over annually by the sheriff? And the surviving industry pays the cost."

"Before a doctor practices medicine, or a lawyer practices law, he must meet professional requirements. The improvement in retailing will not come through legislation requiring a certificate of merchandising efficiency before a man will be permitted to open a store, nor through tightening credit. It will come as a result of retail clinics opened by far-seeing wholesalers who realize that their own success lies purely in the field of better retailing by independent retail merchants."

WILMOT OAK KNOLL P. T. A. TO HOLD THANKSGIVING PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Vincent
Celebrate 39th Wedding Anniversary

The Oak Knoll P. T. A. is sponsoring a Thanksgiving entertainment which will be held Thursday evening, November 20. A program of the children will be followed by a box social and dance, with music by Jack Ehlert.

The Misses Wald, William Rehn, Mr. and Mrs. Art Rehn, Mrs. Annie Wald, and daughter surprised Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Vincent on Nov. 10, in honor of their 39th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hasse of Lake Geneva and John Wehrhouch of Burlington were guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Gauger.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Oxtoby of Spring Grove spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Volbrecht.

Miss Alice Kuenzli attended the Homecoming football game at Carroll college Saturday.

Mrs. F. Pella has been ill the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bufton, Lottie, Belle, and Holly visited at the Holly home at Beaver, Wis., from Friday until Sunday.

Miss Mildred Berger spent the week-end in Chicago.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stoen were: Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Dorwin and Mrs. Nat. Strupe of Wauconda; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thomas of Greenwood; and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Simes and family of Hebron, Ill.

Wm. Lieske spent Saturday in Madison.

Mrs. Stanley Stoen and Mrs. A. C. Stoen visited in Wauconda Wednesday.

Roland Hegeman and Wm. Lieske attended the Green Bay Packers-Chicago Bears game in Chicago Sunday.

Mrs. Ben Kanis spent two weeks in Milwaukee visiting friends.

Mr. Schroeder and daughter, Shirley, and Arthur Sibel of Chicago were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Kanis.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Paasch on Sunday included: Mr. and Mrs. Emil Krueger of Kenosha; Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Greenwaldt of Salem; Mr. Wm. Schultz and family of Milwaukee; and Mrs. Bertha Watts of Milwaukee.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Carey were: Mr. and Mrs. M. McHugh of Baraboo; and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wilson and son, Kenneth, of Chicago.

Mrs. F. Kruckman and Mrs. James Carey motored to Whitewater Friday.

Mary Daly, who is attending the State Teacher's college, returned with them.

Union Free High School Notes

The local grade school and U. F. H. S. observed Armistice day with a fitting program. At 11:00 o'clock, the entire assemblage faced east for two minutes. Then followed patriotic songs, and readings were given by each group and a short talk, by Jos. Kopp, Chaplain of the Schultz-Hahn Post, on the meaning of Armistice day, completed the program.

The scrubs of the high school will hold their first basketball practice on Tuesday evening. These practices will give any and all boys in school an opportunity to learn the fundamentals of the game. Thus we hope to discover future material as well as give everyone a chance to participate.

The next meeting of the local P. T. A. will be held on Monday evening, November 17th.

The card party, sponsored by the P. T. A., held Friday, Nov. 7th, was well attended.

The local basketball team will play the alumni on Nov. 21st. At present twelve men constitute the first string. Besides Captain Lake, they are: De Bell, Memler, N. Rasch, H. Hansen, Oetting, Bernhoff, Anderson, Kavanaugh, Hartman, Ayward, and Berry.

Alumni who formerly played on the high school teams and turn out in suits, will all be given a chance to get in the game.

How to play Bridge AUCTION or CONTRACT

by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 2

Players are still arguing as to whether or not the informatory double is of any value to the game. Here is a hand where an opponent of the use of the informatory double had a chance to crow.

Example Hand No. 1

Spades—10	Hearts—A, 10, 4, 2	Diamonds—A, 9, 5, 4	Clubs—K, 7, 4, 2
Spades—Q, 9, 8, 3, 2	Hearts—8, 6, 5, 3	Diamonds—8, 6	Clubs—10, 8
Spades—A, K, J, 7, 5	Hearts—9	Diamonds—K, 10, 2	Clubs—A, Q, 9, 3

AUCTION BIDDING:

No score, first game. Z dealt and bid one spade. Should A make an informatory double or pass? Even the advocates of the informatory double would agree that A should pass with this hand. There is no chance for game unless B has a free bid, so why not wait and see what will happen. A has a good defensive hand so game is probably in no danger; and yet his hand is strong enough to warrant a try for game himself if his partner overbids one spade. It is a very common situation and should be carefully noted. If A passes, the hand will be played at spades and Y Z will score three odd and simple honors, a total score of 57 points. If A doubles and B bids two hearts, Y will double and B bids three tricks. As they also hold simple honors Y Z will thus score 330 points. The difference between the two bids is a net gain of 273 points for the player who has the good judgment not to double with A's hand. The lesson to be learned from this hand is not to make informatory doubles with weak hands.

CONTRACT BIDDING:

Z should bid one spade and A should pass. A player should have a much stronger hand at Contract than at Auction to justify an informatory double. As Y has only two small spades, and thus no help for his partner's spade bid, he should bid one no trump. B should pass and Z should bid three no trumps. His hand is so much stronger than his first bid of one spade indicated that he is justified in bidding three no trumps. All pass and with the heart opening by B, Y Z easily score game.

There is nothing more instructive than end plays, for every player must understand how to play them if he wishes to be a little better than his neighbor. The following are two typical examples:

End Play No. 1

Hearts—none	Clubs—10, 6	Diamonds—none	Spades—4, 2
Hearts—none	Clubs—J	Diamonds—none	Spades—9, 8, 3
Hearts—none	Clubs—9	Diamonds—K	Spades—J, 7

Spades are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win one trick against any defense?

Z should lead the king of diamonds and trump with the four of trumps. This play will force B to overtrump with the eight of trumps. If B now leads the nine of trumps, Z should cover with the jack and thus make his seven good. If B should lead the seven and so force A to play the queen. If B leads the jack of clubs, A is forced to trump and thus Z's jack of trumps must be a winner. In any case, therefore, Y Z must win one trick. This end play is a most important one and probably comes up more often than any other. When you have one or more losing trumps, it is very frequently good policy to trump in with the highest and so force an opponent to overtrump. This force may thus promote your partner's cards and enable him to make a trick not otherwise possible. In this hand, for example, if Y should discard on the king of diamonds or trump with the deuce of spades, A B must win all of the tricks. Try it out and see what happens.

End Play No. 2

Hearts—Q, J, 9, 8, 6, 5	Clubs—none	Diamonds—2	Spades—none
Hearts—4, 2	Clubs—Q	Diamonds—Q, 8	Spades—Q, 9
Hearts—10	Clubs—K, 8	Diamonds—K, 3	Spades—6, 3

Clubs are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win five of the seven tricks against any defense?

Z should lead the king of diamonds and follow with the ten of hearts. On this trick, won by A, Y should discard the deuce of spades. A has no alternative but to lead another heart on which Y should discard another spade. Z should discard his last diamond. A is forced to lead another heart and Y should discard his last spade. B is now forced to do one of three things, (a) trump; (b) discard a diamond or (c) discard a spade.

(a) Should B trump, Z will over-trump and thus score the balance of the tricks by cross ruffing.

(b) Should B discard a diamond, Z should trump and lead the king of clubs. Z should then lead a spade which Y will trump with his last club and make his good diamond.

(c) Should B discard a spade, Z should trump and lead a spade which Y should trump. Y should then lead a trump which Z should win and thus be able to make his last spade. In any way, therefore, Y Z must score five of the seven tricks. At trick two, if A refuses to win the ten of hearts and so being forced in the lead, Y should discard his last diamond and the problem is easy from then on. This end play is also a very common one in that its solution depends on the forcing of discards. Very frequently an opponent can be forced to discard to his disadvantage, so be on the lookout for the opportunity.

BRISTOL O. E. S. OBSERVES PAST MATRONS' NIGHT

Mrs. Elmer Gethen Buried
Tuesday in Cemetery at North Bristol

Past Matrons' Night was observed Wednesday evening by the Bristol O. E. S. with an attendance of 120, including visitors from the Wilmot chapter and a few from Kenosha. All past officers were given honorary introductions. The initiatory work was beautifully carried out by the past presiding officers. During the closing ceremony by the present officers, Mrs. Lee Batterson, Worthy Matron, was presented with a gift, as a token of appreciation for efficient service, from the remaining officers.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gethen attended the funeral service of Mrs. Lydia Gethen (wife of Elmer Gethen) at Loves Park, Rockford, Tuesday, with interment in North Bristol cemetery. Many relatives and friends met at the cemetery for the burial service. Mrs. Gethen died at the age of 63 years, following an attack of gall stones with peritonitis; she was in the hospital ten days but was not operated on, due to weakness. She is survived by her husband, and one son, Russell, one daughter, Mrs. Burdon an aged father in Oklohom, three grandchildren and sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gethen entered 37 for dinner including near friends, the bearers, Rev. Mercy L. Smith, officiating clergyman from Rockford and relatives as follows: Elmer Gethen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burdon, of Loves Park, Rockford; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Gethen of Chicago; Mr. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Crosby, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rockwell, daughter, Miss Beulah, son, Willis, Mrs. Letta Kottler and son, Carl, from Milwaukee.

Mrs. Mildred Barter, Worthy Matron from Wilmot and other visitors responded to a call for remarks. Mrs.

Fred Lavey presided as Worthy Matron. Refreshments were served in the dining room.

Edmund Pike returned home from Chicago Saturday with Olin Monroe; Mrs. Pike remained for further treatment.

Mrs. Vera Smith entertained at a party Saturday in honor of her little daughter, Dorothy's seventh birthday. She also entertained the Home Guards that afternoon. Games were played and refreshments served.

ILLINOIS BANKS REPEL BANDITS WITH TEAR GAS

Four Equipped With
New System

Installation of tear gas defense system has been started by Illinois banks.

Through these systems, it has been demonstrated, a bank employee, directly facing a gun in the hands of a bandit, can save the institution's cash and render the robber helpless and an easy captive.

The National Surety Company has announced it will reduce by 25 per cent insurance rates for banks thus equipped. The Illinois Bankers' Association approving the tear gas systems, has urged its members to employ them jointly with "silent alarms."

Flash Alarm Signal
This double equipment simultaneously would release tear gas throughout a bank and flash signals in three places—stores, for instance—within a block of the institution.

The gas temporarily would blind the bandit, who would grope his way to the air. Those who received the signals would find him easy to capture.

Two types of gas cartridges are available for banks. One releases a cloud of gas twenty-five feet long. The other diffuses gas in curtain formation between the banker and the bandit.

Fred Fink, Jr., counsel on protective equipment for the Illinois Bankers' Association, said recently that tests have shown that gas can be shot to every corner of a bank within a second and a half.

Banks Newly Equipped

Among the banks newly equipped are the Lansing State Bank of Lansing, Ill.; State Bank of Richmond, Ill.; the Security National of Rockford and the Highwood State Bank off Highwood, Ill.

The latter installed the system after it had been robbed by a bandit who escaped with his loot. After the installation the same bandit returned and he was given the gas.

Blinded, he fired one futile shot toward the ceiling and staggered away. As the "silent alarm" system was not in operation, he escaped.

In recent months bank robberies have increased greatly in the state outside of Chicago, and the new move is expected materially to reduce them.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Adam and Fallen Man" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, November 9.

The Golden Text was, "As by the offence of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so by the righteousness of one the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life" (Romans 5:18).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace" (Psalms 37:37).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The standard of perfection was originally God and man. Has God taken down His own standard, and has man fallen? God is the creator of man, and the divine Principle of man remaining perfect, the divine idea or reflection, man, remains perfect" (p. 470).

The Worship Services for Sunday, November 16th are: Sunday school at 9:30. Morning worship at 10:45. The choir will sing. Epworth League at 6:00 o'clock. A social hour followed by refreshments will follow the devotions and discussions.

The Sunday school board will meet at the parsonage on Monday evening, the 17th, at 7:30 o'clock. The Official Board held their monthly meeting on Monday evening of this week. The Thimble Bee society met with Mrs. Bright Wednesday afternoon of this week.

On Friday evening of this week the Epworth League is giving a party in honor of all who so generously assisted in giving the play, "Aunt Lucia." The hour is 8:00 o'clock, and the place is at the church.

On Saturday of this week our church will be host to the Conference of the Christian Education Association of Lake and McHenry counties. The program will begin at 11:00 o'clock and continue through the day. The ladies of our church will serve lunch at noon for those present at the conference and dinner will be served to the public in the evening. The public is invited to attend the conference. It will be particularly interesting and helpful for all who are interested and engaged in Sunday school work.

On Friday evening, November 21st, an unusual treat is in store for all lovers of music. A musical program will be given by a chorus of about forty voices, coming to us from the First Baptist church of Waukegan. This chorus is directed by Professor C. W. Mountain, who for several years was vocal instructor at Parsons' College, Fairfield, Iowa. Later he was at the head of the Conservatory of Music of Iowa Wesleyan College for several years. He has had a wide experience in chorus work. The program will be given at the high school auditorium of Antioch instead of at the Methodist church as previously announced. There will be no admission charge. Tell your friends about this and bring them with you.

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Peter's church held a brief business meeting at the church Monday evening.

August Techert, Jr., was taken to see the specialist, Dr. Wallman of Waukegan Monday morning, concerning a mastoid. He visited him again yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeru of Ft. Atkinson was a visitor Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Trieger.

Mrs. Alice Jamison of Racine and Helen Buss of Rochester, Wis., were visitors Sunday of Mrs. Inez Ames.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Hachmeister and daughter, Virginia, motored to Wheeling, where they called on friends, and continued to Deerfield, and Waukegan, Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Toulton spent the week-end at her home in Janesville.

AUXILIARY OFFICERS GUESTS AT LAKE FOREST

Several officers of the American Legion Auxiliary attended the school of instruction for the presidents, secretaries and treasurers held at the Deerpath Inn at Lake Forest. A 1:00 o'clock luncheon was served, followed by a meeting at which Mrs. Lucy Brown, of Lake Forest, district director, gave a speech. Tea was then served. The Antioch officers who attended were Mrs. Mary Chase, president; Mrs. Eda Wallace, treasurer; Mrs. Dortha Runyard, secretary; Mrs. Hester Garland, County Child Welfare chairman; and Miss Elizabeth Webb, district chaplain. They were guests of the Lake Forest organization.

BRIDGE CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. WATSON

NOTES

"In School Days"

The American History class had charge of the Armistice Day Program at the high school, and as a further token of their appreciation of the service rendered by "our boys" in the World War, the members purchased a large beautiful bouquet of assorted flowers and sent them to the Great Lakes Naval hospital.

The program opened with a march played by Hans von Holwede. The Salute to the Flag was then given by John Dupre, and the reading of "In Flanders Field" by Margaret McFlanders followed. Two views on the Armistice were discussed by Hans von Holwede and G. G. Reed. Mr. von Holwede spoke on "What the Armistice Meant in Germany"; Edmund V. Jeffers entertained with a solo, and the double mixed quartette sang "Lest We Forget". Mr. Reed then spoke on "What the Armistice Meant in America."

Kids just must be normal and "enjoy" all the childish diseases while they're young. Over a dozen of the grade school children are reported absent from school, being confined to their homes by mumps of more or less painful developments.

The various classes of the grade school observed Armistice Day by programs, or other activities relating to this day. The second grade made flags. School was dismissed in the afternoon.

Strike Beauty Note
For Ruddy Brunettes

Did you ruddy brunettes think you were being neglected? Never, but by reason of your comparative rareness, attention comes to you last. Perhaps you have set your mind on a new Thanksgiving dress, or intend to save enough to purchase a fine Christmas gown? Said statement being affirmed and attested (never mind the law) cast your dark eye over the following list of becoming colors, and note whether the hue of the frock selected in your mind's eye is mentioned here.

Color Becoming to the

Ruddy Brunette

White—Cream white good.
Black—Especially good in lustrous material or velvet; best relieved with white or a little bright color.
Gray—Only dark, brown-gray such as taupe, becoming. Light tones make the coloring look heavy.
Brown—All tones good.
Yellow—Good, especially if it has orange tones.
Red—Rich, deep, yellow-reds among the most becoming colors.
Pink—Deep yellow-pinks good; purplish-pinks to be avoided because it emphasizes shadows.
Blue—Bright green-blues good. In light blues, only those having green tones are becoming.
Green—Brown and yellow-greens of medium or dark tones good. Light green makes the complexion seem heavy and coarse.

PRESERVE CLOSET
A GOLD MINE

By BETTY BARCLAY

Dozens of jars and bottles of preserves, packed away for winter use, constitute a real gold mine. Berries and fruits are filled with valuable minerals and salts. The sugar which is used so liberally to can and preserve is a quick-energy food that is greatly needed during cold weather. Country children, particularly, need plenty of sweets, during the cold months. Here is a delicious recipe to add to your collection:

Pear and Apple Conserve

- 1 pint diced pears
- 1 pint diced tart apples
- 1 lemon, juice and grated rind
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- ½ cup English walnuts
- ¾ cups sugar

Wash the raisins and steam them for 30 minutes to plump them. Add them to the other ingredients and cook the mixture until it is thick and clear. Turn it into clean, hot jelly glasses, and when it is cold, cover it with melted paraffin. The nuts may be omitted, or a small amount of preserved ginger may be added.

Now Time To Mulch
Strawberry Beds

Mulching strawberry beds with straw should be done late in autumn or early winter, advises C. L. Kuttli, Vocational Teacher of Agriculture at the local high school. Mulching prevents the alternate freezing and thawing of the soil and consequently the damage of broken roots caused by the "heaving" of the soil. This freezing and thawing is most severe in the spring.

The straw mulch, says Kuttli, will also retard the time of blossoming in the spring and hence prevent damage from late frosts which are always a menace to the strawberry crop.

Benefits Reaped

The covering should not be too heavy. From one inch to two inches of straw is enough so that the soil will freeze slowly and thaw slowly. Just enough straw is necessary to keep the ground from thawing during a warm spell during the winter and early spring.

When the temperature no longer goes below 20 degrees above zero then it is time to part the straw over the berry plants and expose them to sunlight. The straw left in between the rows will help conserve moisture, keep down weeds, keep the ground from baking, and the berries will be clean from sand. If one wishes late berries the mulch can be left on longer, however, if an early crop is wanted some risk in taking the mulch off earlier must be taken.

6 Short Cuts to Dinner
On Mother's Rush Days

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON
Director, Home Economics Dept.,
H. J. Heinz Company

AFTER the lull of summer, when all the activities that crowd our lives are in full swing again, home makers often must take short cuts to the inevitable three meals a day. At such times, everyone welcomes dishes that are quick and easy to prepare, yet are sure to prove appealing to a family coming home tired and hungry through the chill Autumn dusk.

Following are a few favorite recipes that should help you greatly in planning quick-time menus for just such busy days as these:

Pork Chops and Baked Beans En Casserole

6 pork chops; 1 can Oven Baked Beans (Vegetarian Style); 1 teaspoon sugar; ¾ cup Tomato Ketchup.

Fry pork chops until nicely brown. Add Baked Beans, sugar, and Ketchup, and mix lightly. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 20 minutes.

Everyday Chop Suey

1 lb. ground beef; 2 onions; 2 green peppers; 1 cup water; 3 tablespoons butter; 1 teaspoon salt; ½ teaspoon pepper; 1 medium can Cooked Spaghetti.

Fry the chopped onions and green pepper in butter until slightly brown. Add the chopped meat and fry until brown. Add water, season with salt and pepper and simmer for 10 minutes. Then add the Spaghetti, allow to boil, and serve.

Creole Pork

1 small can Cream of Tomato Soup; 1 small can Cooked Spaghetti; 1 lb. ground raw pork; 1 tablespoon butter; 2 onions; ½ teaspoon salt; ¼ lb. grated cheese; ½ cup crumbs.

Chop onions fine and cook with pork until brown. Drain off excess fat, and add Spaghetti, Tomato Soup and cheese. Turn into baking dish and cover with crumbs and butter. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

Potatoes Stuffed with Sausage

6 large potatoes; ½ lb. link sausages; ¼ cup water; 1 small can Cream of Tomato Soup.

Wash and pare potatoes. With a knife or apple corer cut a hole through each potato large enough so that a sausage may be inserted. Drop sausages into boiling water and cook for 3 minutes. Insert sausages into potatoes, place in a casserole, and cover with soup and water. Cook until potatoes are done, basting frequently with the soup.

Left Over Meat and Tomato Sauce

2 tablespoons fat; 6 medium cups Cream of Tomato Soup; ½ teaspoon salt; 1½ teaspoon pepper; 2 cups celery salt; 1½ teaspoon pepper; 2 cups celery salt; 1½ teaspoon pepper; 2 cups celery salt; 1½ teaspoon pepper.

Melt the butter in a frying pan, add the onion and cook over a low flame until slightly brown, stirring frequently. Add the tomatoes and seasonings, and cook slowly until thick and rich—about one half hour. Then add the cold cooked meat, heat thoroughly, and serve.

Tuna Fish with Pickle Sauce

1 cup tuna fish; 2 tablespoons butter; 2 tablespoons flour; ½ teaspoon salt; Dash Worcestershire Sauce; 1½ cups milk; 3 tablespoons Preserved Sweet Gherkins; 1 tablespoon minced parsley; buttered toast.

Steam fish over hot water until thoroughly heated. Melt butter in a saucepan, add flour and salt, then gradually add milk. Cook until thick and add the chopped Gherkins. Place the fish on a platter, pour sauce over it, and sprinkle with paprika and parsley; or serve on slices of buttered toast.

Hints For Homemakers

By Jane Rogers

ARTICHOKES deserve a more frequent appearance on our menus. They are easy to prepare and add a note of real distinction to the meal. Soak in cold, salted water for five minutes. Drain, place compactly in pot and cook slowly in boiling, salted water until tender. Serve as vegetable or salad with mayonnaise dressing.

Keeping comfortably warm when the mercury persistently hovers in the lower half of the thermometer is a matter of diet as well as of proper clothing and close attention to the furnace. The carbohydrates, particularly sugar, are nature's great fuel foods, providing the body with internal warmth.

TOPPY'S TRAVELS

Synopsis: Topsy leaves his home to follow his canary, Lunny, who flies away. He captures the son of an enemy to his queen, who had been imprisoned. The enemy refuses to return a key to the Cloud-Queen, Topsy's queen, which will restore her power, and the two queens arrange for a meeting. Topsy and the Cloud-Queen prepare for a night attack. Continue—

Topsy sat very straight, and listened for any noises that might betray the enemy, but gradually, his head began to wobble more and more and then he was fast asleep. When he awoke, the sun was streaming on his face, and he was lying in a strange room. He tried to jump up, and couldn't move an inch. He was in chains.

Topsy shouted angrily, but not a sound came in answer to his call. He stretched his neck, and looked for his sword, but it was gone.

"On, why did I go to sleep?" Topsy yelled to himself. "Now they have captured my Queen, taken Egopil, and everything is lost."

Topsy felt all watery and sick inside, just as he had when he had broken Mommy's string of beads that Daddy had given her. What must the Cloud-Queen be thinking of him?

For hours he lay there, feeling miserable, but he must have drifted off to sleep again, for he was surprised when he opened his eyes and saw Toy watching him. "Was it all a dream?" he exclaimed hopefully.

"No, it was not a dream," Toy answered sadly, "but it is not as bad as it might be."

Topsy suddenly thought, "They haven't killed my Queen?" and was unaware that he had spoken the thought aloud.

Toy smiled a little, then. "The Queen is still alive. Don't worry about that. They will be afraid to kill the Queen."

"Why?" Topsy asked. "Because they are afraid that someone of us will find your sword, cut you free, and then you will kill them in revenge."

"Find my sword?" echoed Topsy. "What do you mean?"

"When you fell asleep," Toy explained, "the Cloud-Queen tried to wake you, but you were so tired, that she could not. Then she was frightened, for she knew that the Pillows could soon take the sword from her, and take away Egopil. So she hid the sword, telling only her maidens, and Mr. Frog and me where it is. Then the Pillows came, snatched it away Egopil, and took her prisoner again. They looked everywhere, nearly, for the sword, but couldn't find it. The Cloud-Queen told me to hide, watch where they took you, and tell you that they have taken her prisoner again, and also have taken back Egopil. The sword is too heavy for me, and besides I couldn't bring it in through that tiny crack in the wall that I came through." He whispered in Topsy's ear where the sword was concealed.

"What do you suppose we can do?" Topsy was discouraged and hungry. "In a few days I'll be starved to death."

"There is one chance," Toy answered. "If the guard should fall asleep, I might be able to steal the key to your chains, and set you free."

"If only you can!" said Topsy earnestly. "Wouldn't it be terrible to starve?"

Toy shuddered, and began to cry. "Oh, please don't cry, Toy," Topsy pleaded, "or you'll melt, and then I won't have you anymore." When his little friend still continued to weep, said firmly, "Toy, you must stop, or you will not be able to help me."

That made Toy stop crying. "I'll watch closely," he promised. Hearing footsteps, he shrank away, and disappeared through the crack in the wall.

The door opened and Topsy's guard entered. "Where is your sword?" he roared advancing toward the chained boy.

Topsy looked at him bravely, and decided that no matter what the Pillows did to him, he would not tell where the sword was, for then they would kill his Queen.

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Renewing a childish attachment of Ernestine Briceland, of a wealthy Chicago family, is tremendously attracted by Will Todd, youthful newspaper artist, son of a not particularly well-to-do carpenter. Her sister Lillian, more of the conventional type, and aware of the attitude their father would take toward his daughter's marriage to an impecunious youth, urges Ernestine to end the affair, but the latter, capable of a passionate attachment, and realizing that in Will Todd she has found her affinity, refuses.

CHAPTER II—The love-making progresses swiftly, and finally, largely because of Ernestine's urge, they make a "runaway" marriage. Briceland is infuriated but helpless. Ernestine, being of age, and after a stormy scene the girl, with her husband, leaves her parents' home. Loring Hamilton, wealthy young lawyer, long Lillian's suitor, wins her consent to be his wife.

CHAPTER III—The bride night is spent at Will's home, and next day they begin their married life in a single room in a humble neighborhood. Ernestine realizes the difference her marriage has made in her social sphere, but, secure in her love, faces the future bravely.

CHAPTER IV—John Poole, Will's best friend, successful though disaffected artist, gives a birthday party for Ernestine at Ruby Pastano's bohemian resort on the fringe of the underworld. Pastano, notorious as a bootlegger and gang leader, irritates Ernestine by his criticism of Will for bringing his young wife to such a place. Appealing to Will to take her home, he delegates the task to a friend, Tommy Tucker, explaining that he must see Poole, who has drunk too much, to his home. Ernestine is hurt and indignant. The situation is saved by the appearance of Loring and Lillian, who had heard of her whereabouts and with whom she leaves the party.

CHAPTER V—Reproaching him for leaving her "unprotected" in his caring for Poole, Will takes an attitude which awakens Ernestine to the realities of her new life. She is conscious of approaching motherhood, and in anticipation of the event opens a small apartment which would be her home, she resolved, kissing his tear-wet face, holding him to her heart. She would stay with Will and his mother. Her people had denied her husband the kindness that was due among kindred. They had denied her. She felt that she didn't care whether she ever saw them again. If they had done this for Will, everything else would have followed, but now, in common loyalty to her husband, she had to recognize this hurt.

She was almost fainting with weariness. It seemed to her the night would never end.

Papa came in his big car and took Ernestine and Will and Mrs. Schluss to the burying ground. Will accepted this courtesy with dignity. He was not the person to quibble at a time like this.

He Patted Her Arm and Tried to Control His Feelings.

The services of the Ethical society were brief and dignified. It was Ernestine's first acquaintance with death, and she felt the power of human dignity, felt as she had never felt before the common inheritance, the integrity of Will's father's life.

When they came back, Ernestine sat in the car and talked to her father a few minutes. She told him that she and Will were to stay at the little house, that she was going to try her hand at housework and nursing. She should have done it sooner—she didn't realize, she said, that she was needed.

She ought not reproach herself, her father answered—she had done quite well to avoid being a responsibility to Will's father and mother.

"That wasn't enough," said Ernestine. "I've a new set of values to learn."

"You think the ones you learned at home inadequate?"

"I didn't mean that."

"You've been very quiet with me all day. Do you resent our attitude?"

Ernestine was near to tears. "It hurt Will," she said, her voice shaking. "It forces me to take a stand—I have to be loyal to Will. Papa, I love you all so, but I love Will most, your wisdom and his childishness. Just love him. He'll come home." Ernestine knew no answer, but the words fell into her heart as though there were more significance to them than their stereotyped importance. For an hour or more they sat in silence, Ernestine dreaming of Mrs. Todd remembering, Will!

Mrs. Todd lived just long enough to see her grandson and to kiss his poppy silk cheek. Will laid him in the hollow of her arms, but after a moment, with a word of entreaty, she asked him to take the baby away. He did so and, calling the nurse to his mother, who seemed to be swooning, he took the little one back to Ernestine.

And so the parlor of the little house was a bower for death. The gray coffin, the room filled with flowers, the worn-out shell of the woman Ernestine had understood so little.

Will accepted his mother's death with more philosophy than Ernestine had expected of him. The long waiting, the clinging, had been harder for him than the final separation. Besides, the new little life cuddled against Ernestine's heart was so much more than any loss—it was such an appropriate compensation.

The baby had finally established Ernestine among her new neighbors. Slowly but surely they had come to respect her, and now, with Peter in her arms, with her house clean and by her own efforts, she found Mrs. Schluss and Mrs. Pryor and others showing her real affection, which she appreciated and respected in full. Ernestine felt that all sacrifice was justified, and they entered into a new phase of life, in their own small home, Will at the oars, Ernestine at the helm, and the baby for passenger.

It was harder to maintain the high level of contentment after Lillian returned from Europe and established herself in her new home on the road, out near Loyola. Will went across with Ernestine one noon shortly after their return. Mamma was there. Lillian was charming to Will, kissing him when she greeted Ernestine and the baby and flattered him skillfully.

After Will had left for the Sun the three women followed one another about the house, passed the baby back and forth between them, and talked, talked, talked, all at the same time, all listening and talking, all intent on catching up the old intimacy. It was charming. Ernestine could not remember when she had spent such a happy afternoon. There was no one like mamma—no one!

CHAPTER VII

The Baby for Passenger

Lillian was in Europe. Mamma and papa and grandmother had gone to Langley lake for the month of August. Ernestine entered into a period of waiting, of passing through days of unreality and nights of patient endurance. Sometimes, waking after she had slept, she looked about the walls of the little room with a feeling of enormous surprise. Was this really she, Ernestine Briceland, in this dim room, with the curtains plucked back to admit any vagrant breeze, listening with her heart suddenly quick in the still night for her husband's footsteps?

Mr. Poole came often to visit them. Ernestine began to look for him for late Sunday breakfast. And the Pastanos were kindness itself. Their shining car, with the swart grinning chauffeur, was often at the door.

One day as Ernestine sat reading aloud, Will's mother laid a swollen, creased hand over the book, and Ernestine, looking up at her, smiled quickly and kissed her.

"What is it, mother?"

They talked a little about the coming baby, and the plans Ernestine and Will had made.

"It is hard for your mother," said Mrs. Todd, with a smile. "I think perhaps it is as great a mistake to be stiffnecked about favors as it is to be greedy."

"Perhaps," admitted Ernestine. "It is hard to be exactly balanced. One must choose a direction in which to lean."

They fell into a friendly silence. After a little, Will's mother pressed Ernestine's hand.

"About Will—" she said and hesitated, and Ernestine's heart beat a little faster.

"Be patient with him. He hasn't found himself yet. But he will. You are more mature than Will. Children will increase the distance between them."

On the day that Lillian was married Mrs. Todd was able to sit up, and Will consented to go to the wedding. The church was filled with flowers—the bridesmaids made a rainbow—Ernestine had pleaded the excuse of mourning for taking no part in the ceremony. The pews were filled with old familiar faces—the ushers were young men Ernestine and Lillian had known always. Everything was very beautiful and formal, and Ernestine realized that mamma would have liked such a wedding for her.

She was glad afterward, that she had gone, for the weeks and months just passed had been so hard for her that the beauty of her own romance had become a little dimmed. But when she heard the marriage ceremony again, when she stood by Will and watched her sister marry Loring Hamilton, she remembered every word and every kiss of her own marriage day—its storms and turmoil, and she looked at Will, at his clear strong face, at his lean bony body in the shabby suit, at the big square hands resting on his knees, and the richness of her love for him welled up in her like a great tide that would and must carry everything before it.

Did Your Last Coal Give A Full Measure of Heat

Think, before you order another load of coal—did your last coal give you the full measure of heat to which you were entitled? If not, let us talk the problem over with you. It may be a change in size or the quality of the coal will be the right answer. We want you to be "coal-satisfied" when we supply your coal.

CHANNEL LAKE COUNTRY CLUB NEWS

An unexpected return of mild weather last Sunday brought out many of the Channel Lake Country Club members, some to play golf and some to enjoy the great outdoors. The fortunate ones "among those present" were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sandell, Mrs. Britton, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Luffin and daughter, Frances, Mr. and Mrs. Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brook and son, Billie, Mrs. W. W. Warriner with Betty and Jane, Messrs. Gray, Renz, Mack, Juhnke, Venn, Loven, Billie Renz and Allen and David Gifford Bill and John Volk, also several others.

With so many of the old familiar friends scattered over the course, and the grounds looking so green and in such fine playable condition, it was hard to realize that Thanksgiving is so very near.

A most unusual thrill was afforded the golfers in the early afternoon when a very strong wind caused a brushwood fire, which had started far to the west of the golf course, to make swift progress towards the cottages adjoining the club grounds. For a time it seemed as though a serious conflagration was inevitable, and the Antioch Fire Department was called to the scene. However, at a most critical moment, the wind took a sudden turn and all danger was averted, although the flames made quick headway in another direction, to the north of the golf course. The dyke which surrounds the course on three sides, offers almost sure protection to Club property, from fires or floods. This fact was never so fully appreciated as it was when this fire was going across country by leaps and bounds, and it looked as though nothing could stop it.

Others members who spent the day in the country, but did not attempt any golf, were Mr. and Mrs. Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Whitfield, and Mr. and Mrs. Gnaedinger, all of Lake Marie, also Mr. and Mrs. Paul Volk and Mr. and Mrs. Will Gifford on Channel Lake. If the fine weather continues, we may all eat our Thanksgiving turkeys at our summer homes.

PONY EXPRESS TO RADIO

THE Pony Express rider, Uncle Sam's first mail man, was until less than fifty years ago, the farmer's only contact with the world. Fighting hostile Indians, braving blizzards in winter and torrid desert heat in summer, these daring riders coined the slogan now used by our air mail flyers: "The mails must go through."

PROGRESSIVE farmers soon clamored for closer communication with their friends and relatives. Mail and newspapers were months reaching them. The government's answer was the establishment in 1896 of Rural Free Delivery. Development of rail transportation and the R. F. D. did much to break the isolation of the farm.

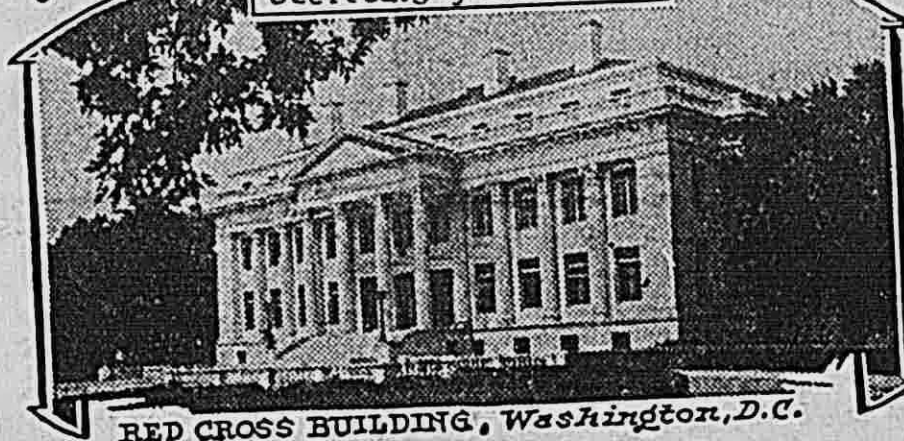

RADIO has proved the latest step in bringing the farmer into instant communication with the rest of the world. Moreover, science has recently removed the last barrier to satisfactory radio reception on the farm. With the development of the new type air cell battery and receivers, he enjoys radio reception equal to that of city dwellers.

Street Accidents Take Thousands of Child Lives

RAY LYMAN WILBUR, Secretary of the Interior

Estimate Based Upon Accident Statistics, Says Secretary Wilbur

Washington, D. C.—If history repeats itself, many thousands of children will be killed or maimed by automobiles within the next twelve months in the United States.

This statement, according to Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior and chairman of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, is based upon the accident statistics of past years.

"When I was a boy," said Secretary Wilbur, "the only thing we feared out in the open country, was a rattlesnake. But the rattlesnake is a domestic pet compared with the automobile. Rattlesnakes may kill a few thousand persons a year in this country, but automobiles kill thousands of children alone, because our safety precautions are not as modern as our mode of travel. "Worst of all, the automobile is only one of the many new modern dangers to which our children are exposed."

Members of the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection which will meet in Washington November 19-22 at the call of President Hoover, have been working for the past year upon the problems of childhood.

"All they have discovered—that is, every bit of scientific knowledge relative to children now in existence in the field of medical service, public health, education and training—will later be at the service of what the President has rightly called the 'deeply concerned parents' of this country."

More than 1,100 experts from every field will gather at the Red Cross and D. A. R. buildings in Washington for the Conference. Secretary Wilbur, as chairman, will make the closing address. The Secretary has served both the American Medical Association and Stanford University as president.

AN APPRECIATION

We wish to take this means of expressing our appreciation to one and all who contributed so generously in the reception given us at our home on Wednesday evening. The beautiful spirit in which the numerous tokens of good-will were given is equally much appreciated. With all our hearts we thank you.

Rev. and Mrs. Phillip T. Bohl.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation to our many friends and relatives for the flowers, kindness rendered by the use of their cars, and expressions of sympathy in our recent bereavement in the death of our brother, James Gleason.

His Sisters and Brothers.

NOTICE OF APPRECIATION

We wish to thank our many friends for calling and for their acts of kindness at the time of our son's accident.
